

Doctorate in Community College Leadership

Developing leaders who will strategically guide mission-driven, 21st century community colleges

Built upon Ferris Core Values: Learning, Ethical Community, Collaboration, Diversity, Excellence and Opportunity

COMPLETE IN JUST THREE YEARS!

Mission

The Ferris State University Doctorate in Community College Leadership empowers graduates to advance community colleges toward excellence and community responsiveness through exemplary leadership.

The Ferris doctoral program was created for leaders of mission-driven, 21st century community colleges. Application-based and taught by academic faculty in partnership with community college leaders, this doctoral program is relevant to the changing environments in education. The courses look at problems and issues community colleges face today and in the future. The courses focus on the question, “what would a leader need to know to address this issue?” Areas covered include finance, student success, resource development, marketing, teaching and learning, policy and leadership.

Multiple Dissertation Options

Research, Project, and/or Evaluation Dissertations

Early application deadline:
December 18
for Cohort Seven!

Start date
May 13, 2016

FREE INFORMATIONAL WEBINARS!

Variety of dates and times (EST):

- Tues, Sept 15: 11am or 4pm
- Thurs, Oct 22: 8am or 1pm
- Wed, Nov 18: Noon or 5pm
- Tues, Dec 8: 11am or 4pm

Register by emailing
cleadership@ferris.edu

This program is tailored to the needs of full-time working adults.

Most of the program is online with one weekend face-to-face meeting each fall and spring class and one-week summer face-to-face sessions. Its emphasis is on practice in addition to the introduction of theories.

 FERRIS STATE UNIVERSITY
DOCTORATE IN COMMUNITY COLLEGE LEADERSHIP

410 Oak Street, ALU 113, Big Rapids, MI 49307
(231) 591-2710 | cleadership@ferris.edu
www.ferris.edu/cleadership